

The Salient Marks

Of superiority in point of material and construction as also in the matter of style is self evident throughout our entire stock and a look through at the new goods received lately in the different departments will be more than convincing of our position in the matter of always standing to the front with the best of everything in Furniture and Carpets. New things to be seen here this week that we would draw your special attention to are the Dining and Library Tables, styles and finishes of which verify the modern spirit and demand that exists for excellence in the fine art of furniture making. The new office desks and chairs are also among the attractions, both in point of comfort, convenience, looks and service, and belong to a class with character that adds strength to the appearance of your surroundings.

The Carpet Department is filled with things that will be of equally as much interest to prospective buyers of good floor coverings.

Inspection respectfully invited.
